

INDIGENOUS LEADERSHIP

The Indigenous Leadership Associates degree at UTTC offers an immersive educational experience that blends traditional knowledge with modern leadership practices. This two- year program encompasses pivotal topics such as Indigenous Leadership Practice, Ethics in Indigenous Leadership, and the historical and cultural underpinnings that have shaped Indigenous communities. With a focus on practical skills, advocacy, and linguistic proficiency, the program aims to empower students to become adept leaders capable of navigating and bridging both Indigenous and broader professional contexts.

Graduates will emerge with a deep appreciation of Indigenous histories, cultures, and languages, ready to make meaningful contributions in leadership, community development, tribal governance, and beyond.

Degrees

- Indigenous Leadership Associate of Science (<https://uttc-public.courseleaf.com/programs/indigenous-leadership/indigenous-leadership-as/>)